GEN. HARRISON'S FEELINGS HURT. Why the Ex-President Will Refuse

Jury Cases in the Future. Ever since ex-President Harrison announced at the close of the Morrison will case trial that he would not accept an employment again in a jury case, there has een much speculation regarding the cause of his determination. Yesterday, according to a New York World dispatch, an attorney employed in the Morrison case furnished a reason which seems entirely credible, and which the friends of the ex-President do not question.

According to this authority the immediate cause was a remark made by Congressman Henry W. Johnson during the trial. The court had ruled against Johnson and

THE MARINE BAND.

A Dissatisfied Cornetist Raises a Small

An investigation is now in progress at the marine barracks to determine whether there is any foundation for a number of charges that have been made against Prof. Fanciulli, the leader of the Marine Band. The charges were made by A. G. de Vincente, who formerly played the cornet in the band, and grew out of the recent trip which the band made through the south and southwest, and which was not as great a success from a financial point of view as nad been hoped.

The former cornetist was one of those

The former cornetist was one of those who went with the band, and ever since they got back he has been stirring up discord where there should be only a concord of sweet sounds. He was discharged a few days ago, and since then his allegations have taken a more definite form. The gist of them is that on their recent trip the men were not treated as well in the matter of accommodations as they had been led to expect and that the leader had not distributed among them as much of the coin of the land as they thought was justly due them. He also claims that he, personally, has always been discriminated against in the matter of outside engagements, by means of which the men are accustomed to add to their rather meager incomes.

These troubles came to the ears of Col. Heywood, the commandant, and he forthwith placed the matter in the hands of two of his subordinates to be sifted to the bottom. This action is invariably taken in cases of trouble of any sort at the barracks, and does not of itself, Col. Heywood says, imply any slight or disrespect to the leader of the band. The aggrieved DeVincente was looked upon as rather a dissatisfied Italian and was always affected by the jealousies which are so prevalent in musical organizations. In speaking of the matter today, Col. Heywood said that while he had not received formal notice from the two officers who were making an examination, he was satisfied that there was nothing in the charges, and that the whole affair would blow over or end in smoke.

G. P. O. EXAMINATIONS.

Tests of Scholarship and of Practical Knowledge to Be Applied.

Commencing August 1, the civil service ommission will hold an examination for applicants for the positions of compositor, pressman, bookbinder, feeder, helper, folder, sewer, counter, numberer, gatherer, etc., in the government printing office. chamination for pressman, bookbinder and helper; from men and women for examination for compositor and counter; from women only for examination for feeder, folder, sewer, numberer and gatherer.

Applicants for the positions of compositor, pressman and bookbinder will have a preliminary examination in orthography, penmanship, letter writing, arithmetic and practical questions. In addition to this a practical test will be given to those who pass the preliminary examination.

The second of the practical tests will be given only to those who are selected for appointment from the preliminary or educational test. This practical examination will be given under the supervision of the commission when the person selected for appointment reports for duty. An applicant should therefore not claim, nor should his vouchers claim for him, any greater proficiency in the trade in which he desires to be employed than he can demonstrate upon the president and the province of the composition of the province of t ficiency in the trade in which he desires to be employed than he can demonstrate upon the practical test. Those who fall to make 70 per cent out of a possible 100 per cent in the practical examination will not be appointed to the service.

Appointments to the government printing office will not be apportioned exactly among the several states and territories, but it will be the aim of the commission to distribute appointments as for as possible distribute appointments as for as possible distribute appointments as far as possil among the states and territories.
